When automotive parts manufacturer Metalsa was considering diversifying their business, they turned to Kangan Institute to help them align the skills and capabilities of their employees with their new strategic direction.

In this video Kon Rigopoulos, Metalsa’s Operations Coordinator, talks about how Kangan Institute helped transform their workforce resulting in increased productivity, enhanced morale and improved relationships between management and staff.

Talk to us today about how workforce transformation can help turn your business around.

Call us on 1300 61 51 41 or enquire online.